

RaiderNet Daily

G. Ray Bodley High School, Fulton, NY

Volume 1, Number 114-AFD

Thursday, April 1, 2010

BIGFOOT AT BODLEY? BELIEVE IT!

By Ima Lyre

As students and staff members alike wait breathlessly for the end of the current construction projects, news has come forth regarding the cause of the many delays. According to a source within who preferred to remain anonymous, missing girders in the school and pipes beneath the athletic field are not the true cause of these delays.

Believe it or not, the construction project has been stalled by constant mischief caused by none other than the Abominable Snowman himself, "Bigfoot." According to one workman, "that darned rascal keeps messing things up for us, ripping out parts of buildings and messing with the wires. I don't know if we'll ever get this baby done!"

School officials did not return calls to comment on this situation, so the crack team of reporters at RaiderNet Daily set up a special camera to get to the bottom of the situation. The resulting photo is shown here today in a worldwide exclusive. "We leave it up to the readers themselves to draw their own conclusion," journalism teacher Mr. Synical commented.

The elusive "Bigfoot" was captured on film right here at G. Ray Bodley High School recently, and is said to be the source of construction delays at the school. (Ima Lyre photo)

School's out early this year for FCSD!

For many years, the Fulton City School District has been a "school in need of improvement" due to low-test scores, and graduation rates dropping. However, as many know and celebrated, the schools results with both scores and graduation rates have steadily increased, which has led to the school being removed from the SINI list. With this great accomplishment, a reward was called for.

This June, the schools district wide will be student and staffless by Tuesday, June 1 as opposed to classes ending in between June 15-24. Regents will still take place, however students will not be attending review classes until the week of the 14th. Journalism student, Nick Millard went undercover as a custodian in order to dig up the scoop on the recent school year change. Millard leaked the information to Mr. Senecal's first bell journalism class, who is now informing you of the recent change.

The students are in for another treat, as summer school has been canceled this summer. Due to global warming the schools feel that turning off all generators and excessive machines during the summer months will benefit the world's atmosphere. All students, failing or not, will be receiving passing grades, a 65 or higher so that no repeating of classes will be held next year.

These recent schedule changes for the school year of 2009-2010, have stirred up many questions as to why. Once more information is released to the media, students and parents will be more informed. Until then, we will have our undercover journalists Adam Wolford and his sidekick kitty-cat Mittens in the Ed. Center gather more information every day.

Look who's coming to Oswego County!
Story on page 3

Opinionated

Procrastination a big problem among students

By Brandon Teetsel

Procrastination is a terrible thing that befalls many high school students... I'll finish this tomorrow...

New rules in place at LMC

Many students are furious and frustrated at the new method to signing in to the school library. Just recently students were told that before coming down to the library to sign in they must first go to their study halls and sign in with their teacher. This is a great inconvenience to many people because it forces them to go so far out of their way and even causes some to be late.

This new requirement to sign in at the library is about to get even more obnoxious. Since some students are now late to the library, teachers are requiring a pass from these students. The librarians are now going to start requiring passes from student's study hall teachers, allowing them to go to the library, along with their normal library pass. This is to ensure that teachers know where their students are at all times and to help prevent wandering in the halls. Requiring a pass from teachers will guarantee that students head straight from their study hall to the library.

In addition to this new rule there is talk about removing some of the power from the recently distributed VIP passes. Currently the passes can be used as a library pass. However a few of these passes have been stolen from students who earned them and are now being used by the students who didn't work for them. The teachers never check the names on the pass, so students can just flash the pass and get through without a problem. By removing the VIP's access to the library and requiring passes from the teachers of the study halls, there will be virtually no way for students to sneak into the library.

By Ben Davis

But seriously, folks:
For the REAL news and views from GRB, check out today's edition of
RaiderNet Daily

Student lounge nixed for variety of reasons

By Cravis Towart

Once the addition of the school began to come forth, there was another idea for an addition on this addition. This idea will change the G. Ray Bodley High School forever. This idea is well known to all of the students, especially the seniors. Yes, you guessed it. It's the idea of a senior student lounge where seniors can take a break from the average school day. The senior class of 2010 has been pretty upset that they will be unable to fully appreciate the lounge due to graduation. But at this rate there is no chance of seeing any signs of a student lounge for a long, long time.

There are quite a few things that hinder the idea of a student lounge. First of all, the student board cannot afford it. Due to the lowered budget, classes have been dropped, and there may not be some of the teachers around that we see today. It was the "smartest choice" to take another thing away from the students, just so they can save a few dollars. So they just decided to take away something the seniors of 2010 have been looking for all year; the senior lounge.

"Board directors believe that the students will mistreat the lounge and take advantage of their freedom. They believe that the lounge will be trashed."

Another thing is the assumption that it will not be treated right. Board directors believe that the students will mistreat the lounge and take advantage of their freedom. They believe that the lounge will be trashed. They believe that there would be papers everywhere, food on the wall, broken equipment, and practically everything else that could go wrong. But, if we can't be trusted, there is no reason why seniors should get the privilege right? What about those students that have been decent with their behavior and homework? Well, because of the few misbehaving students, the idea of freedom is long gone.

These few reasons are so drastic that they've put the Student Board of Directors on the edge. They already have been cutting classes and teachers, construction is struggling, and they need to worry about the behavior of the students. All of these reasons, sadly, are reasonable. At this rate that has no sign of changing, there will be no senior student lounge.

Elvis, "the king" still lives!

(from page 3)

GRB's Bodley's Got Talent show. Presley will be performing a number of songs including "Heartbreak Hotel", "Ain't Nothing But a Hound Dog", and a remix of "Just Dance" with a mixture of "Jail House Rock" which was made into "Jail Dance".

If you're free April 15, make sure you get out to see Elvis Presley perform on his return to the states and concerts.

(Not really) In the News

President Obama to visit Oswego County, GRB

He's the leader of our country, the big man in the white house, the man with all the power, and he's coming to our county. On Saturday May 29th, President Barrack Obama, will be stopping by "Rudy's "the loop"" to give a speech on the importance of environmental issues.

When most heard of this, they didn't believe it because it's such a great honor to host a speech by the President of the United States. Senior Erica Lamb said, "This is crazy! I cannot believe that, the President is coming to our county I'm still flabbergasted. I will definitely be going to the loop that day!" Many others feel the way Erica does. English and Journalism teacher, Mr. Senecal says that the Raider will be at the Loop, getting a picture with the President for "Where in the World is the Raider?" in our 2009-2010 yearbook.

The President will be arriving in Oswego County on Friday, May 28th where he will be residing with GRB Principal Mr. Buchanan for the night. That night the principals in all of Oswego County will be eating dinner with the President at "Justin's Grille" in Syracuse. Senior Adam Wolford is extremely excited to see the President, he says, "I'm so excited, it's like a cat's meow. =^.= "

As May gets closer, the press will be releasing more updates on the Presidents visit. The Loop is ready for the President, and is ordering excessive amounts of food ahead of time, to make sure they have enough. So make sure you date your calendar and head over to the Loop to see the President of the United States, and enjoy some good food.

By Two Girls with a good imagination

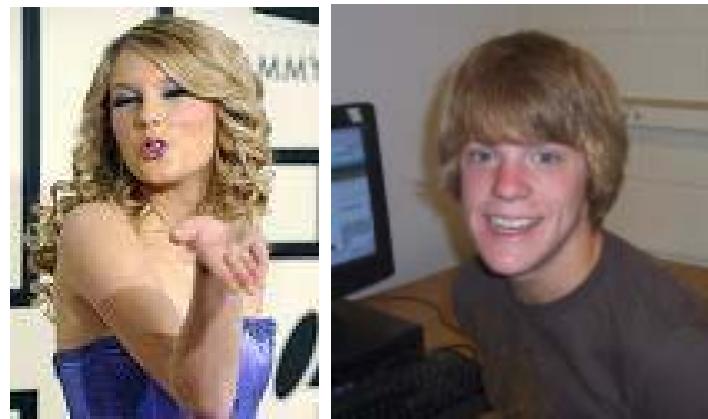

Bodley buzzes with news of Wolford, Swift at prom

Blonde. Famous. Beautiful. Young. These are all words used to describe the superstar who will attend this year's G. Ray Bodley High School junior prom. Adam Wolford, a three-time prom veteran, will be going to prom again this year. As with every year the question arises, who will be the lucky girl to go with him this? I mean, as a legal Greek god, a member of the Peace Corps, and rumored to be a superhero, it is hard for anyone to match up to his prestige. After offers from millions of women, including the likes of Carrie Underwood, Kellie Pickler and Selena Gomez, Adam has finally picked Taylor Swift.

Without a doubt this has created a lot of drama in Hollywood. Best Friends Forever Taylor, Carrie and Kellie are rumored to not be speaking any more. One source even states that Kellie has tried to rip out Taylor's weave, but to no avail. "It's getting out of hand in Hollywood," stated Perez Hilton, famous blogger, "I mean I know Adam is beautiful, but this much drama seems crazy." Some even say it's crazier than finding out Zach Froio's real age. Contrary to popular belief, he is in fact 32, not 18.

Many of the women Adam denied are demanding an answer. "Why not me?" many questioned, "Am I not worthy?" Adam wanted to address the issue. Due to some of his die-hard fans it is hard for him to leave his house without being mobbed by a group of beautiful woman making an interview impossible to do. However, he has released a statement on this issue. "Fans, peers, compadres, I have made my final decision in who I am taking to prom. Our common love for the number 13, natural chemistry and how good we both look together in front of the camera led me to this decision."

When Taylor was asked about how she felt she replied, "This is the best day of my life! I felt a special connection with him from the first time I saw him and I was hoping he would choose me! I am so humbled and honored."

Singing sensation Taylor Swift, left, is one lucky gal after hearing that she has been chosen as the prom date for GRB's own heartthrob, Adam Wolford. As for the girls he spurned, better luck next time.

With all this drama going on in Hollywood no one is quite sure of what the outcome will be. Without a doubt some friendships have certainly ended over the events that took place after the release of Adam's decision. It is rumored that a reality TV show is being conjured up over all the drama. It is planned on being titled "Prom-a Drama" and released in April of 2010. No matter what happens in Hollywood one thing is for sure Taylor and Adam will be going to prom together.

By P. Romman

Elvis lives! And he's coming to Bodley's Got Talent

"I'm all shook up, mm, mm, oh, oh, yeah, yeah! My hands are shaky and my knees are weak I can't seem to stand on my own two feet, who do you thank when you have such luck?"

Who would you thank? As Elvis Presley sings his song, "I'm All Shook Up" fans cheer crazily as Elvis Presley was never deceased. For many years now, fans and people across the world were under the impression that Presley was dead. However, after recent exploring by Dr. Jonathon F. Balestra and his team of archeologists on a bone sight in Bora-Bora, they found much more than old bones. As Dr. Balestra worked in the bone sight, a man wandered toward them, whom they now claim to be Elvis Presley.

Presley told media that he was on a plane heading to Bora-Bora when winds and a storm caused a sudden loss of air pressure, and the plane descended down toward the ground. Everyone on the plane perished, except Presley and a little dog, which Presley named Jackson. Immediately Dr. Balestra welcomed Presley with food, water, and shelter. However, Presley soon showed his "home" in which he's lived in the past years. Presley was fishing for food, had an abundant amount of water and lived in a cave like dwelling for shelter. Dr. Balestra was astounded by Presley's ways of living.

Elvis Presley was reluctant to return to the states, knowing that he will be gawked at for many years. Because of this, the media says Presley will return April 15, in time to perform a duet with Lady Gaga at the

(continued on page 2)

Lady Gaga to appear at Bodley's Got Talent!

"Stop callin'! Stop callin'! I don't wanna think anymore. I left my head and my heart on the dance floor," sings Lady Gaga in her new hit single "Telephone," featuring Beyonce Knowles. Later this month at GRB's own talent show "Bodley's Got Talent!" Lady Gaga is scheduled to perform this song among several of her other hit singles including, "Just Dance," "Poker Face," "Paparazzi," and "Bad Romance." Luckily for GRB students this one time only, revolutionary concert will be performed free of charge. Gaga, a GRB alumnus, decided it was time to give back to her school and her hometown of Fulton, NY.

Lady Gaga, or Gaga as her friends and fans call her, has changed the face of music, as we know it. Born Stefani Joanne Angelina Germanotta, Lady Gaga picked up her name from the Queen song, "Radio Gaga." After playing in bars and nightclubs throughout New York City, Gaga finally got a break with the release of her first hit single "Just Dance." To date six of Gaga's songs have gone number one of the Billboard's "Hot 100" matching the likes of Mariah Carey and Beyonce, the pop-diva, herself.

"So many people here have changed my life," explained Gaga, "I always told myself I would give back [to my community] if I ever got famous and here is my chance!" Gaga, famous for her pop party music with an undertone of social revolution as well as her out-of-the-box, almost artistic way of dressing, will also be talking at the school earlier in the day. She will lead a lecture on Quantum Physics, which she cleverly titled, "The Monster Within all of us: A Theory in Quantum Physics." Her theory proposes that all the subatomic particles are just really misunderstood. "They just want to dance like the rest of us," explained Gaga, "while their movements look random, my theory states that they are actually just dancing to their own beat like the rest of us."

Not only educated and beautiful, the talented Lady Gaga is set to perform on April 15th, so if you are left with nothing to do on that Thursday night you should definitely come to "Bodley's Got Talent" to see this one time only event. Even if you have plans it is probably in your best interest to cancel them and come anyways. Even if you are not a fan of Lady Gaga, seeing her live could end up turning you into a "little monster"!

By Knott Really

AP Students cracking under pressure!

Year after year these students walk the halls of the school on a daily basis and go mostly un-recognized by the teachers and administration. These students attend school on time each day and arrive at their classes in a timely fashion. They will not accept grades that begin with a 7 and cringe at those that begin with an 8. Only 90s are tolerable and 100s are their main goal. To keep themselves from going insane these students have joined AP and honors classes in the hopes of being mixed with other students with the same drive and commitment towards their studies.

These students are the AP students and now school has just become too much. Between the pressures they place upon themselves and the added pressure from teachers to achieve a score of 5 on each AP exam, these students are beginning to feel the effects and it is causing their intellect and sanity to crumble.

"Stop testing! Stop testing! I don't wanna think anymore, I left my pencil and calculator on the dance floor."

AP Student Adam Wolford

closeness of the exams and teachers are starting to cram remaining information into only a few weeks to allow for ample review time.

To add to the student discontent they must also worry about their other classes and face teachers who do not find AP classes to be as important as the class they personally teach. As each day passes more and more of these students look toward the easy way out: dropping out. Dropping out seems to be their last resort after trying to cope with the excessive strain. To try and lighten their load many have lost interest and dedication towards certain elective classes such as band, chorus, orchestra, art, ceramics, technology, foreign languages, etc. Outside of the classroom they have begun taking less hours at their jobs and have lessened their involvement with clubs and organizations.

Although it may seem impossible for these students to have such a dramatic change of heart, it has become a reality. If you don't believe them, here is what they have to say: "I'm sick and tired of thinking. I'm dropping and going to college to be a brain surgeon!" commented Alicia Vann, who is currently enrolled in AP Biology, AP Economics, AP Calculus. "One fish two fish red fish blue fish," was all that Amanda Wood, an AP Biology and AP Economics student had to say. "I'm so done with all the schoolwork. I have been overloaded three years too long!" AP Biology student Katelyn Gilbert added.

Other AP students were just as distraught, "AP classes are anti-Hakuna Matata," according to Elizabeth Guernsey, an AP Economics student. "It makes my brain hurt just thinking about the test! It might melt out my ears," according to Cassandra Gardner, an AP Biology and AP Economics student. Inspired by Lady Gaga, senior Adam Wolfrd, a student in AP Chemistry, AP Economics and AP Calculus summed it all up in saying, "Stop testing! Stop testing! I don't wanna think anymore, I left my pencil and calculator on the dance floor."

As a result many students have considered dropping out all together! Although some may say it jokingly, others have taken it into serious consideration. It has even been heard that an AP student mentioned dropping out of school and joining the circus. Others may not understand the reasons for this sudden twist in student devotion, but to the AP students, times are getting tough and the classes are getting rough. The AP exams are administered each year for two weeks during May. With the calendar now reading April the students are edgy with the

Field scrapped for Ed. Center

Construction complete. Not! In the past month the school board has met on several occasions to discuss the new complex project. Unfortunately for you Bodley athletes, the outcome of the meetings is not in your favor. It has been decided that instead of a new athletic complex, there will be a new Education Center built in its place. The argument is that it will save the school district money with transportation and numerous other expenses that the budget does not have room for.

That is correct, there will be no complex for outdoor sports. What does this mean for the sports that need the complex? Well for the time being, sports will be cut for the next few years at least. The plan to save the school district money was not over looked by any of the coaches; as they had no say in this plan.

Why can't we continue using Central Squares' complex for home games and travel to other schools for away games? Well, the Athletic Director of Central Square does not want us using their complex anymore, he believes we are taking up too much complex time and making it hard for Central Square to schedule games. The school board decided that cutting transportation to all these destinations would be the easiest way to save money. It is an unfortunate turn of events, however this must be done to provide the best educational opportunities for our youth.

By Pat Johnson

Construction crews are hard at work in an effort to build the new education center in time for the 2010-2011 school year.

Vitale's out, Belair's in for NCAA Championship coverage

Bye bye Dickie V...hello Eric B!

In a shocking move, CBS Sports announced on Thursday, April 1 that longtime analyst Dick Vitale has been sacked for this weekend's coverage of the NCAA Final Four in favor of RaiderNet Daily Sports Editor and G. Ray Bodley High School senior Eric Belair. It seems that the executives at CBS are big fans of Eric's daily coverage of the tournament, hence the surprising announcement.

"We're sick of Vitale's rambling," a CBS spokesman commented, "we wanted a fresh face, and this Belair kid seems to know his stuff." He also revealed that after a widespread poll of women ages 14-49, Eric was the hands-down choice as the man to replace Vitale on the broadcasts. "Women love him, men want to be him. What more could you ask for?" CBS commented.

Eric, who was en route to Indianapolis to begin his duties with CBS, was unavailable for comment, but his journalism advisor and agent, Mr. Senecal, spoke in his behalf at the hurried press conference. "We're thrilled for Eric and wish him well at CBS," Mr. Senecal commented. "At the same time we'll miss him at RaiderNet Daily. Never forget your roots, BAY-BEE!"

CBS workers give Dick Vitale the heave-ho after Thursday's announcement that he had been replaced by RaiderNet Daily Sports Editor, Eric Belair, right.

Prom cancelled in wake of prank gone awry

The Junior Prom has been cancelled! You read it here first: Junior prom is cancelled. Junior class V.P Elyse Cinfarano, confirmed the rumor on Thursday, April 1 when junior class advisor Mr. Reale delivered the sad news. "It is unfortunate," said Reale. "But unfortunately the junior class did a horrendous job fundraising, and due to the prank they played on the administrators which resulted in several hospitalizations, a totaled car, and two kids being imprisoned by local authorities..." After being asked to go into more detail about the prank, Reale said he could not discuss it.

With numerous outraged juniors, it is inevitable that this will be a huge topic of discussion over the next few weeks. Junior Mike Bailey commented that, "Everyone who is going to ruin my junior prom, the one thing I've looked forward to since the time I could walk and shake my groove thing, can honestly cut the hocus pocus, and let us live our lives, however our destiny has written it out for us." With those truly inspiring words Bailey stormed off muttering under his breath.

Another junior recounted his feelings and reaction to the horrific news. "When I heard that the bad people took my prom away from me, I cried, for five hours, straight. I was like are you kidding me, seriously! Oh my goodness gracious I was more furious than a bumble bee without a flower!"

"When I heard that the bad people took my prom away from me, I cried, for five hours, straight. I was like are you kidding me, seriously! Oh my goodness gracious I was more furious than a bumble bee without a flower!"

A distraught GRB junior

So this is just a message, an informative letter so to speak, for the junior class. Something can be done, and there is a solution in the making. Cake and ice cream for every junior advisory. There will be a one trip limit, and some classes will have to share cake because most of it will be left over from the senior dinner dance in June.

News you'll never find anywhere else

Favre shocks world by announcing that he'll play

The long anticipated wait has finally come to a close, as quarterback Brett Favre announces his return to professional football. The decision came early Thursday morning in a press conference held in his hometown Hattiesburg, Mississippi. Many of Favre's closest friends and relatives, including his wife Deanna were there to share this heartfelt moment with Brett. This decision comes over four months earlier than his decision came last year.

Vikings personnel were ecstatic about the return of their star player, who will be entering the final year of his contract. Of course we knew Vikings Coach Brad Childress was as thrilled as anyone. Childress was prepared to let Favre take as much time to make his decision as humanly possible. Every Viking fan boy and Favre enthusiast questioned Childress's motives. We all know what kind of things Favre could have done with that statement, and personally, I wanted to see him come back before the playoffs. That is no joke either, Childress may have very well let Favre comeback just for the playoffs. Vikings players could not help but speak of next season's chances, and it was even reported that talk of a Championship was muttered. Favre, who will turn the ripe age of 41 this season based his decision of his "Love of the game" and his "Duty to his team and the organization." Obviously it wasn't for the obvious health risks, and the fact that he is ancient in football terms.

Favre currently has the longest consecutive start streak, at 286, and that number will look to eclipse the 300 mark this upcoming season. Brett Favre will most likely break the unheard of 500 mark for touchdowns on his career. It is starting to look like a hunt to pad his already stellar records. Favre owns the all-time NFL records in touchdown passes, passing yards, completions, consecutive starts, and of course interceptions.

We all know Favre may play till he is 70, and with that, he will have successfully put every passing record out of reach. In modern day football, it is so difficult for a player to go his whole career with no major injuries setting them back. Favre, who only has one Super Bowl title under his belt, will be looking to add another one on with his impressive cast of receivers and tight ends. Sidney Rice came out of the gates last year with a bang, posting up over 1300 yard receiving off 83 receptions. Favre will also be assisted this year by TE Visanthe Schiancole, who was a red zone freak, catching eleven touchdown passes.

You either love him, or hate him, but regardless, offseason football would never be the same with out Mr. Favre taking up the spot light. Seriously though, what would this world be if retirement actually meant something? Favre does deserve credit though, because for the first time in three years, he never technically retired. Brett Favre is the most decorated quarterback in NFL history (stats wise), and this season he will be looking to bring home the hardware and rank among the Brady's, Montana's, and Young's as the greatest winner in NFL history.

Paterno, Boeheim Bodley bound in shake-up

If you have ever had any doubts about the athletic ability of G. Ray Bodley's varsity football and boys basketball teams, rest assured that the times have changed.

To ensure that more checks are put in the win column for both teams next season, major changes are starting at the top. Both head coaches, Mr. Conners and Mr. Kent, are being replaced. The Fulton City School District is in the process of hiring the now former basketball coach at Syracuse University, Hall of Famer Jim Boeheim. As for the football team, they will now be under the direction of the legendary Joe Paterno from Penn State. The decades of experience that both coaches bring to the table are all but guaranteed to improve team performances.

At a recent press conference, both coaches expressed their excitement about the opportunity to proudly sport the royal red and green of Fulton. If you're still not convinced that this was the right move, please remember the endless list of credentials of both coaches. This season Jim Boeheim took the Syracuse University men's basketball team all the way to the Sweet Sixteen in the NCAA Men's Basketball Tournament.

And because Joe Paterno has been in the business of coaching football for so long and done so well, his name and the sport itself have become synonymous with one another. They were quick to note that both Coach Conners and Coach Kent would be retained as assistant coaches for next season.

You heard it here first! Legendary Penn State football coach Joe Paterno will lead the Raiders onto their new turf field next fall after being named the new head man for the Raiders. Also coming to GRB is Hall of Fame Syracuse University basketball coach Jim Boeheim.

With such high-profile coaches about to make their home at G.R.B., one could only guess how the district will be able to afford their salaries. This very issue was resolved at a recent Board of Education meeting. It has been decided that all of the new construction projects in the school district will come to a halt. All of those funds will be redirected and put straight into the new coaches' paychecks. Of course, the new turf football field will be completed as scheduled. As next season approaches for both squads, let's look forward to an exciting, nationally known style of coaching that will surely put the fans on their feet.

There's no fool like an APRIL Fool!
Happy April Fool's Day!

School of Thought compiled by Raquel Vescio & Crystal KimballWhat do you think about Big Foot being on school grounds?

"I brought him here he is my brother."
Jake Tallents

"He is so sexy and is my senior dinner dance date."
Alicia Vann

"I will fight Alicia for him!"
Kelly Ormsby

"I didn't think the rumors were true until I saw it. You have to believe to achieve."
Noah Carroll

GRB announcements for Thursday, April 1

Free copies of the 2010 Fultonian Yearbook are available to the first 100 students to bring this ad to Mr. Senecal between 11:59 p.m. March 31st and midnight on Thursday, April 1. No, this isn't real.

The tiddly winks tournament scheduled for this Thursday will take place after school at the flagpole. See you there.

The next meeting of the Bigfoot spotters club will take place at 6 a.m. on Thursday, April 1st. Bring your cameras and binoculars.

The Photo Club is looking for your Bigfoot photos. Contest deadline is Thursday, April 1.

Buying lunch today? You'll have a choice between filet mignon, lobster bisque or smucker's PBJ.

These are not the real announcements. Check RaiderNet Daily for the real ones. Have a happy April Fool's Day!

Meteorology and you

by Carson Metcalf

Today: Heavy snow, accumulating from 1-2 feet. High around 85, low in the single digits.

Tonight: Becoming progressively darker until all sunlight has disappeared.

Tomorrow: No School! Happy Easter weekend!

GRB sophomore Carson Metcalf is an aspiring Meteorologist and the creator of the Central New York Weather Center @ www.centralnewyorkweather.com ...Look for his real weather forecasts on RaiderNet Daily.

