

Editor embezzles yearbook funds!

By Ima Lyre

AP Calculus, National Honor Society and a high ranking position as the yearbook and RaiderNot Daily editor were replaced by wild nights with Las Vegas showgirls, luxury cruises on high-priced yachts, and a jet-setting life of lust and debauchery.

But all of that has come to a crashing halt for Carson Metcalf, a member of the senior class, who was caught "green handed" when yearbook club advisor, Mr. Senecal came in over the break and found him stuffing bills and checks into his suit-pants pockets.

Mr. Metcalf allegedly was coming in to "work on the yearbook," but instead he was pilfering funds that the yearbook staff desperately needed. A struggle broke out, and the staff was told to call the police while Mr. Senecal held down the editor in chief, endangering himself, because Metcalf has a black belt in Karate. Senecal received 10 stitches to the forehead in the scuffle, but is said to be recovering well. The emotional scars, however, may never heal.

"I'm stunned, Carson seemed like such a nice boy, the kind of kid you'd trust your children or your daughter with," Senecal commented. "It's a sad day for the yearbook and the school at large. Who would have thought that behind that sweet smile was the face of a master criminal and deviant?"

Police arrived soon after and the perpetrator was carted off to jail. When questioned, Metcalf admitted that he had used the money, estimated to be in the hundreds of thousands of dollars, to buy a yacht and a new computer lab filled with Mac computers for his house.

Two pictures emerged later of his extravagant stay in Las Vegas. One picture showed him standing with four Vegas showgirls decked out in a new black suit, and the other must have been later in the night, showing Metcalf dressed in an extravagant showgirl hat. Clearly, what happened in Vegas didn't stay in Vegas. Tweets on Metcalf's account

(continued on page 8)

It was all fun and games for Fultonian and RaiderNot Daily editor Carson Metcalf as he wined and dined the showgirls in Las Vegas using stolen yearbook money. But the party has ended for the high honor roll senior when he was caught "green handed." Authorities decided to "shock that grin off his face" before sending him to Alcatraz.

(Not quite) In the News

Reward set at $100 trillion for missing gnome!

By Lanessa Vangdon

Call it the case of the missing gnome as Social Studies teacher Mr. McCarten recently noticed an important member of his classroom was missing!

Upon entering room 222 on the morning of Wednesday, March 21, Mr. McCarten noticed that the tree where the gnome, who goes by Larry, usually perched was empty! Apparently there is no honor among thieves as the gnome was stolen by Mr. McCarten from one of his advisory students in May of last year, so perhaps this turn of events is just karma?

Whether karma or not, the facts do not lie-Mr. McCarten has received two ransom

Has anyone seen Mr. McCarten's missing gnome? The first ransom note contained this picture of "Larry" wrapped in the Mexican flag.

Bonoís classroom on Monday, March 26. This ransom letter entailed the gnome Larry wrapped in what seems to be the Mexican flag. This picture has yet to be examined by Mr. Patnode, but hopefully something will have been left behind by the culprit, be it a fingerprint, hair, or saliva.

Mr. McCarten is very serious about finding Larry and it is his number one priority, with the teacher commenting that "My world has been in a whirlwind since it happened!" to ensure the speedy return he has come up with a hefty reward for the return of Larry-providing a 100 trillion dollar sum to anyone who brings in the theft dead or alive.

In all seriousness return the gnome and no one gets hurt and just maybe you will get 100 trillion dollars.

Money is no object in the case of the missing gnome, as the reward for return has been set at 100 trillion dollars!

letters containing pictures of the gnome. The first letter was received on Thursday, March 22. This ransom photo was delivered to a student in the hallway who then relayed the message to Mr. McCarten directly. Mr. McCarten then gave the picture to Social Studies teacher Mr. Patnode as he specializes in these types of matters as a Criminal Justice teacher and former Syracuse Police Officer. Mr. Patnode conducted fingerprinting on the picture. Unfortunately for Mr. McCarten and the fate of Larry, the fingerprinting was inconclusive.

A second ransom letter was left in Mr.

A second ransom note featured a picture of an obviously lonesome Larry, who is lost and cannot find his way home.

The English teacher and the supermodel!

By Donchu B'leaveit

Women throughout Oswego County and Central New York are currently in mourning at the news that Fulton's most eligible bachelor, G. Ray Bodley English teacher Mr. Ron Lescarbeau, is dating Victoria's Secret model Adriana Lima. The couple has been seen visiting several romantic beaches in Cancun gossiping into a towel. The couple is now making it public that they are officially dating.

But rumor has it that the frisky couple will be headed to a photo shoot here in Fulton, New York placed on Lake Neahtahwanta, working with famed photographer and award winning former member of The Raider, "Mighty Pete."

Lima is extremely nervous for such a vigorous photo shoot in such a popular place. While lounging in their newly purchased beach house, Lescarbeau warned her that there is nothing to be afraid of, and that he will be there for her the whole time. Lima and Lescarbeau were seen on March 20 taking a nice jog on the recently finished G. Ray Bodley track. Lescarbeau comforted her with her photo shoots, and she comforts him when he gets tired during a long jog.

Not only will Lima and Lescarbeau be making their relationship public at the photo shoot, but they have also been shopping at Great Northern Mall. Lescarbeau, man of myriad talents, has wonderful taste in women's clothing, so Lima enjoys going to the mall with him. In Victoria's Secret, Lima and Lescarbeau have been signing autographs and getting photos with fans.

Lescarbeau is now basking in the publicity that he has always wanted, and many say has deserved, since he was young. He has been involved in numerous shows throughout his life, and has never gotten so much publicity before.

So what do others think about this relationship going public?

While associating with Lescarbeau's close friend, almost a brother, GRB senior and Quirk's Player standout Nate Hawthorne stated, "I am glad that this relationship is finally going public and I wish him the best of luck." It seems that Hawthorne and Lescarbeau have a similar taste in women, maybe a little too similar after Hawthorne stated, "Hopefully no one will steal Adriana away from him like he stole her from me...I HAD HER FIRST!!!" After speaking with him, he had to walk away from the fury that arose in him.

Hearts were broken throughout Central New York with the recent announcement that GRB English teacher Mr. Lescarbeau and Victoria's Secret supermodel Adriana Lima are "an item." (T. Rick photo)

Will Lescarbeau still be working here at G. Ray Bodley, or will he travel with Adriana Lima?

After chasing down the frisky couple and asking the rigorous questions, it became clear that Lescarbeau will be finishing his career as an English teacher this year. Lima stated, "I cannot wait to travel the entire world with such a beautiful man peach." Clearly, the public was unaware of the sensitivity that Lescarbeau possesses. Lima continued, stating, "When he met my parents, it was almost as if he is part of our family. He really knows how to reel in the parents, and girls for that matter." Lima and Lescarbeau went on with their evening by going to the Olive Garden via limo.

One can only hope that the happy couple lasts forever. You can visit them at their photo shoot on April 1st located along Lake Neahtahwanta.

Rumors, Hearsay and other silly stuff

Class of 2012 ditches Lake George, heads to Cali!

By Ima Lyre

The seniors have decided that Lake George is not their ideal senior trip. The students congregated last Saturday to discuss an alternative location. After three hours of discussion, they arrived at a conclusion. Their initial thought was to travel to Europe but several people posed problems. The financial aspect alone was impossible for some students, not to mention the cost of a passport. Besides, the point of a senior trip is to include everyone!

So where exactly did they decide upon? Well, 2,788 miles away where the grass is always greener. The senior boys will definitely be singing "California Gurls" after this trip as the Class of 2012 is westward bound to California for a senior trip.

Seniors Ashlynn Palmitesso and Shaun O'Connor traveled to California to scope out the potential trip for the senior class. Since everyone knows that the Hollywood sign is universal metaphor for success, ambition, and a little something we call dreams, this sign provides a perfect example for their future of the graduating seniors.

The longest part of the gathering was the formation of the itinerary. The students will fly into Los Angeles International Airport. They will stay for a week in Los Angeles and for a week in San Francisco. The schedule consists of diverse activities for all to enjoy such as shopping at Rodeo Drive with the celebrities, dining with Megan Fox and Brad Pitt, and filling the footprints of famous legends on the Hollywood Walk of Fame.

As an additional surprise, the students are going to cruise around in decked out limousines with a choice a surprise guest as their guide. They may see the houses of Nicholas Cage, Ozzy Osbourne, Betty White, Michael Jackson, and even The Playboy Mansion. "I don't know about you, but I am definitely excited for this trip!" one senior commented.

And that's just for starters as the students still have to head up north for some excitement in San Francisco, starting with some action at mysterious Alcatraz Island. While there, they hope to discover the truth that lies behind the bars as well as visiting with former classmate and current inmate Carson Metcalf (see story, page 1). It's a slight possibility that they will hike through the Muir Woods with the lions, tigers and bears.

Lombard Street, which consists of eight tight hairpin turns is also in the plans, as well as one more surprise for the seniors that cannot be revealed at this time. And to the likes of senior Ross Maxam and the entire boys portion of the class, the surprise may include actress Eva Longoria.

You are probably thinking, what is this going to cost? After negotiating with my business partners, we estimated about $0.00 per person. The school was extremely helpful, and rewarded us with a $50,000 check for our hard work and dedication. "I'd say that's a very generous graduation present, don't you think?" senior class president Jeanette Bartlett commented.

All seniors have a space available, plus there are ten open slots for any teacher who wants to join. Come sign up for free in Room 1010 and get ready for a once in a lifetime trip!

The legendary Alcatraz prison and the Golden Gate Bridge are just two of the many sights that members of the Class of 2012 will be enjoying on their upcoming senior trip, which has been described by more than one senior as, "the trip of a lifetime!"

JV teams nixed in wake of soccer success

With the recent success of the boys' soccer team this past fall, making it to the sectional finals and losing by one in OT, the Board of Education along with the superintendent have made a drastic decision that will affect all athletic programs.

The program did not have enough players to field a JV team, so the varsity combined with the JV and provided the underclassmen a chance to still play. Although they did not play much, they still became close with many upperclassmen and provided some stiff competition to the older players.

Many believe the soccer team was so successful due to having both the JV and varsity coach at their disposal along with many of the would be JV players providing challenges for the varsity players. The team was large but the chemistry and team camaraderie was still traditional Fulton style.

The decision: no more JV programs.

The board has decided to cut all JV programs in order to duplicate the success of the soccer team. Although this may make it harder for freshman and sophomores to make their respective teams, it will result in the best players being taken regardless of age.

Senior Ashlynn Palmitesso stated "I think it's a spectacular idea, there will be a better selection process for the athletes chosen." She was joined by fellow classmate Nate Deavers, who agreed and said "I think it's a good idea. The JV teams aren't up to par with the varsity anyways. And besides, we get sick of sitting through the JV game."

It is a bold move and will most likely not be followed by local schools, depending on the success of next year's Raider teams.

From Bodley to Broadway! A new star is born

By Knot Really

From Bodley to Broadway in less than a month? That's right, folks. G. Ray Bodley High School's own Nathan Deavers has been spotted by the professionals. This young man's next stop is Broadway! We have all heard his beyond angelic voice, watched his stellar performances throughout the years and watched him light up the stage with his masterful comedy and artistic dance moves. Well now you will be able to continue watching him on stage, only this time for ticket prices that are tenfold higher than the high school tickets.

According to the trade publication Varieties and his agent, Ron Lesarbeau, there are many roles that young Deavers is being considered for, ranging from Marius in Les Miserables, to Frankie Valli in Jersey Boys, to Simba in The Lion King. "Everyone knows that Nathan would be perfect for any of these roles, but because he is the Nathan Deavers, he is pretty much allowed to choose any role for himself," his agent commented, adding that, "he owes it all to me. I have worked with that boy for years, and now it has all paid off!"

When asked what his preferred role would be, Deavers said, "It would be my dream to be the Phantom in The Phantom of the Opera." Only time will tell how that will go for him, but there seems little doubt that he has the talent for it.

So how does a young man like this go from walking the boards at Bodley to being discovered by Broadway? Sources have reported that an agent from Broadway was in the audience for one of the recent productions of the Quirk's Player rendition of Damn Yankees. Famed Broadway creator Andrew Lloyd Webber was quoted as saying, "This man is absolutely beautiful on stage. His portrayal of Joe Hardy was riveting! Although he may not be as good-looking as some of his fellow cast-mates like the young man who played Mr. Applegate, we want him!"

Award-winning Quirk's Players senior Nathan Deavers is Broadway bound, headed for the lead role in Phantom of the Opera.

The New York Times is proclaiming that the Bodley senior will bring upon "The New Age of Broadway," with his award-winning brilliance in performing and his young, boyish charm. If you are a fan of visiting New York City or just love to follow musical theatre, keep your eyes out for this young man's name because he is going places.

News you'll never find anywhere else

Vegas oddsmakers tap Bawarski for prom-repeat

By Allen Goodfun

Everybody knows that Prom is approaching for all juniors and their dates. Alex Bawarski will be returning with his pass from last year, as he won the coveted title of prom king. He is now the favorite to pull off an unprecedented double, with Las Vegas setting the line at two to one odds, not even coming close to the rest of the field.

Alex is looking to do something that has never been done in Fulton before, winning the crown for the second year. While there were a few favorites to win for the juniors, nobody expected the running of Mr. Bawarski.

The king may not be ready to give up his crown, according to Vegas oddsmakers, who have given reigning Jr. Prom King Alex J. Bawarski the nod to pull off an unprecedented double at this year's event.

There is said to be some controversy regarding Alex's eligibility but it is actually very legal according to the rule in section two, part five, and rule 56B, in the Prom handbook. This rule states that anyone who has the initials AB is eligible to run for prom king and as you can notice, Alex Bawarski has the required initials.

Many of the junior guys are arguing against letting him join because they think that he is a major threat. When informed of this this, he noted that, "I can't blame them. I'm drop dead gorgeous." He is very confident and believes that he can easily win this honor and become king.

Expect to see Alex on prom court and there will have to be a major "Cinderella," or underdog to defeat this goliath of a reigning prom king. Hopefully there will be no foul play involved and there will be a clean race, with no jealousy. It has been reported that Mr. Bawarski has hired bodyguards to accompany him during these upcoming weeks so that he will be kept safe, with nobody trying to conspire over him.

We will see how this race will unfold, but RaiderNot Daily is predicting a landslide victory in favor of Mr. Bawarski based on several polls. This will be the most lopsided race for prom king since the election of 1986, when legendary GRB English teacher Ron Lescarbeau captured the crown.

A dollar and a dream means end of problems at the high school

What would you do if you won the MegaMillions Lotto? Fortunately for the Fulton City School District, one of its own is donating mega-dollars to help solve several important issues at the high school. The winner, said to be a member of the faculty, has already given back to their place of employment with the construction of a domed stadium that will cover the existing turf field. As a result, this year's graduation ceremony and those to follow, will be moved to the new Bodley Indoor Stadium.

English Teacher Mr. Lescarbeau will be the featured speaker at the Class of 2012 ceremonies, where he will also be honored for his retirement prior to leaving the area with his new beau, supermodel Adrianna Lima (see related story on page 3).

In addition, the journalism classes will benefit greatly from the purchase of a new color press that will enable Mr. Senecal's classes to produce both a morning and evening newspaper that will be distributed free of charge to everyone in the district. In order for this to happen construction is also about to commence on the new Senecal Journalism Center, which will house the newspaper as well as satellite radio and television station WGRB.

"This is a dream come true," the longtime journalism boss commented. "All those days of cutting my hands and soiling my clothes on the copy machine will be a thing of the past."

And in a final gesture of generosity, the unnamed benefactor has provided the district with enough money to declare itself as a "Sovereign School State," which means it will no longer have to deal with mandates from the State Education Department or worry about ending up on any state lists. As a result, all senior English electives have been restored due to a fund that will provide tuition money to every Bodley graduate who decides to attend college.

"It's unbelievable," a faculty member commented. "So many of our problems have been solved all at once! This truly is a miracle." So far the donating faculty member has remained anonymous, but speculation is running rampant at the high school.

By Dontwe Wish?

New study finds bacon is a miracle cure

By Lian Hownd

Bacon, the most delectable of the smoked meats, has long been thought to be troublesome for one's health. A new study published last week in the monthly Science magazine, gives support to a counter theory—that bacon is actually beneficial.

The study concluded that bacon has high levels of 1-4-Chlorohydroxylipase, a protein unknown until just recently. In recent trials, 1-4-Chlorohydroxylipase was determined to drastically increase one's immune system by raising the numbers of memory cells and Cytotoxic T cells produced by the body. This leads to a stronger, more efficient immune system that eliminates any viral or bacterial infection in less than three days.

The world's most delicious meat has also been shown to contain large amounts of ribofructeze, a compound shown to increase muscle mass and lead to rapid muscle growth. This one-two combination of beneficial effects can be used to help one reach the peak of their physical prowess.

In a sit down interview with Dr. Melvin Gibson, he revealed to RaiderNot Daily that, "the discovery of the beneficial uses of bacon was purely accidental. We were in the lab working on a cure for the common cold when one of our lab assistants accidentally dripped some bacon grease in a petri dish. We inspected the dish later and realized that something killed off the virus."

While the future potential of bacon has still not been completely figured out, pig farmers have started to increase the size of their litters. Wall Street responded quickly to the news as bacon futures reached an all-time high in a matter of hours. "Forget oil, bacon is the new gold!" one analyst commented.

Furthermore, scientists are now working to isolate the 1-4-Chlorohydroxylipase enzyme for pharmaceutical trials. "I am excited about the various possible uses of this, and I greatly feel this can help the American society with its obesity issue. We are working diligently to find a way to use this new information to America's full advantage," stated Dr. Gibson.

All of those years with a guilty conscience for indulging in more bacon than one should, they can now be relieved. Feast and be happy, for the world's best food is now the

Don't think twice about having an extra slice of bacon, or 100 for that matter! A new study has determined that bacon consumption will enhance rapid muscle growth, and who couldn't use a few more muscles?

"Wall Street responded quickly to the news as bacon futures reached an all-time high in a matter of hours."

world's healthiest. Visit your local supermarket and buy as much bacon as you can, it's in your best interest- and it tastes pretty good too.

There's no fool like an APRIL Fool!

Happy APRIL Fools Day

News you'll never find anywhere else

2012 yearbook cancelled in wake of scandal

(from page 3)

boasted of his wild nights and womanizing in the "Sin City."

"It's all hearsay, the truth will eventually come out and I expect him to be acquitted," Metcalf's lawyer, Ron "Darrow" Lescarbeau commented. "This is a case of poor book-keeping being pinned on an innocent schoolboy!"

Apparently the senior class member had an accomplice on the outside, who had received enough money from the botched heist to aid Metcalf in his frequent trips out of Fulton and to Las Vegas, Nevada. Natasha Luis is being questioned about her involvement in the escape.

Mr. Senecal estimated that a large sum of $30,000 is still missing from the funds after the theft, so there is no yearbook this year for the senior class thanks to the editor in chief. Metcalf will most likely have to go into a protection program to help him avoid the angry students.

"Hey, guys just want to have fun too," Metcalf commented, paraphrasing a song by his 80's idol, Cindy Lauper. "It was worth it! What's life in prison and a few jolts from the chair compared to the senior trip of a lifetime?"

Senior Carson Metcalf during one of his wild sprees in Vegas.

Bodley senior is Harvard bound!

It is official! I, senior, Hannah Dunsmoor, have made my final decision to attend Harvard University. I will be majoring in Biomedical Sciences and Engineering, and will be playing under Coach Lisa Miller for the women's lacrosse team. I am very excited to be the first person from G. Ray Bodley to attend Harvard after all of the grueling effort I have put into my schoolwork.

My choices were between Harvard, Princeton, and Brown University, but Harvard seemed to be the best fit for me because they have the largest dorm rooms. They come with complementary hot tubs and giant massage chairs to relieve stress.

I started playing lacrosse my sophomore year and the girls coach from Harvard has been keeping her eye on me for a while. This year she finally approached me and begged me to join forces to help boost the skills of her team. After a really exciting overnight with the team, I knew I had to go there. The girls brought me on their team's private jet and we flew to Los Angeles and sat backstage at Katy Perry's concert. She sounds miraculous live.

The team and I had a remarkable time and we discussed the rigorous homework schedule that I would soon be enduring. They gave me tips and advice on how to balance schoolwork and lacrosse. The girls were all very helpful. The workload seems rigorous but I know I can handle it. The captain of the lacrosse team informed me that freshman normally have to write between six and ten papers a night. That is close to the amount I write now, so I am not too worried.

Overall, I am thrilled that I have accomplished my dream to attend Harvard. I consider myself a genius, so I think Harvard will aid me in winning a Nobel Peace Prize. Everyone should congratulate me on my effort and knowledge, because one day I may create a cure that could save your life.

But seriously, folks:
For the REAL news and views from GRB, check out
RaiderNet
Daily

School of Thought compiled by Tony Torrese

What's the best April Fools joke you've done or had done to you?

"My mom told me I had to get my foot amputated!"

Faith Montgomery

"My husband told the man upstairs the house was on fire and he ran out in his boxers!"

Mrs. Wilmot

"I Saranwrapped my toilet so my dad couldn't use it."

Michael Holcomb

"Someone put a bucket of water above my door so it splashed me when I opened it."

Ryan Salisbury

Meteorology and you

By Carson Metcalf

Today:

Mainly cloudy early with blizzard conditions developing by noon. Snowfall around 40" is expected. High around 10.

Tonight:

Heavy sleet and freezing rain. Very windy. Low around -20. Winds could gust to over 100 MPH.

Tomorrow:

Mainly sunny. High in the low-90s, low in the mid-teens.

Tuesday:

The Apocalypse is upon us! Heavy fire showers and severe lava flooding. High around 2000, low temperature...it really doesn't matter. Can you say "Lava Day!?"

GRB senior Carson Metcalf, currently serving 10 to life for embezzlement, is an aspiring Meteorologist and the creator of the Central New York Weather Center @ www.centralnewyorkweather.com

Look for his daily weather forecasts for Fulton on RaiderNet Daily.