

Plans set for 2015 yearbook, 2014 on sale Friday

And as the curtain closes on one edition of the Fultonian Yearbook, work is already underway for the next one. And with that in mind, it is time once again for senior portraits, this time for the Class of 2015. On Thursday and Friday, June 5-6, members of next year's senior class have been scheduled to have their portraits taken in the auditorium. Schedules are being handed out during guided study halls and are also available in the office.

As has been the case for the last eight years, School Pictures of Rochester will be handling the portrait duties. "By going with one company we have eliminated many of the mistakes that have plagued us in the past," Fultonian adviser Mr. Senecal noted. "We have included nearly every senior for the past seven years, whereas in the past we were lucky to get sixty percent of them."

Students do not have to purchase pictures from School Pictures and the portrait sitting is free for each 2015 graduate, but there is a $5 fee for retakes, which will take place in the auditorium on Wednesday, August 27 from 9 a.m. to 2 p.m..

Students are strongly urged to attend their appointments in June, as things can come up during the summer. Mr. Senecal is also urging juniors to take their sitting seriously in terms of the way they dress, as the yearbook is a permanent record. Anyone who misses the first two chances may still have their picture done when ID photos are taken on September 10-11, but unlike the senior portraits, there is no variation in poses.

Students may also go to an outside photographer, but in choosing to do so will be responsible for bringing in a digital copy of their photo or uploading it to the Herff-Jones website later in the summer. Please be informed that pictures submitted from outside sources will not be included in the disc that is sent to The Valley News at the end of the school year for the senior section, but their school picture will be included. Also, in order to be included in the yearbook, straight on head and shoulder photos are needed, with a plain background.

To keep people well informed, the 2015 Fultonian has already established deadlines for next year. These deadlines are strict, as the Fultonian staff is held to similar strict deadlines in order to get the yearbook out on time. Information will once again be sent to parents prior to the 2014-15 school year for the purchase of senior ads and yearbooks.

As for this year's Fultonian, all of the deadlines were met, and the staff is currently anticipating yearbook distribution and sales on Friday, May 30 in the auditorium. And for the big question, "are there still any yearbooks for sale?" the answer is yes, according to the yearbook adviser. "We ordered

Seniors reflect on their time at G. Ray Bodley

By Tevin Simard

After four years of academic and social life here at G. Ray Bodley High School, three seniors, Sophia Giovanetti, Austin Haskins, and Julia Ludington, talked about their experiences. They discussed advice for future seniors, what they are going to miss the most about high school, friendship, and their favorite classes. The three have encountered the typical highs and lows of high school and are eager to begin their new journeys in college.

When it came to giving advice to future seniors, Julia said, "It is really important for students to stay up to date on all things pertaining to college. Don't make it more stressful than it already is by forgetting deadlines or waiting until the last second to turn something in!" Austin had a like-minded message and elaborated on that point of view by saying, "I was one of those kids who thought I could get my work done the night or a couple of bells before it was due. It makes for a very stressful year getting behind on assignments and projects." In contrast, Sophia recommended that G.R.B. students "stay positive. Even though you may hate your classes or feel like it is never going to end, you have to look at the bright side of things."

Next, each high honors student reflected on what aspects they would miss most about their G.R.B. experience. Austin responded by saying, "The worst part about leaving G.R.B. is the inability for me to see my friends every day. College will be a great experience where I will make new friends, but contact will be lost between many of my friends here." Childhood friends Sophia and Julia both agreed that they would miss their supportive teachers, who acted as an effective support system. Julia, this year's salutatorian expressed that "going to college will be a challenge because I will have to make all new connections and friendships," a sentiment echoed by many college-bound seniors.

The trio reached a consensus on what courses and teachers they enjoyed the most. Mr. Heindorf's AP English and Mrs. Ryan's AP

Calculus classes received high praise. Taking the time to think carefully before replying, Austin asserted that "AP English with Mr. Heindorf was the most interesting class because of the way it was taught. Mr. Heindorf talked to our class like he was a student with us, in a way we could understand more clearly. He had that down-to-earth vibe where you could talk to him about anything. Not too many people have that quality. [AP] Calculus with Mrs. Ryan was always a blast and she made our whole class laugh constantly. She made sure we were well prepared for our test, as well as in college."

In like manner, Julia said that while math is not her strong suit, "Mrs. Ryan helped me learn to leave my comfort zone and face my fears" and, "AP English helped my writing skills immensely, and group discussions/acting out Hamlet always made for a good laugh." Sophie believed that it was the one on one attention and dedication of her teachers that has made her the college-ready senior that she is now.

some extras, so there should be enough to go around," he commented. He is hopeful that everyone who so desires will be able to purchase a book, with the price set at $60.

For students who have preordered, Mr. Senecal has asked them to check the list outside the lunch room for the status of their order, and to check with him if there are any problems. Students who still owe money toward their yearbook are also encouraged to get things taken care of as soon as possible.

And as is always the case, Mr. Senecal hopes for increased participation from the students for the 2015 Fultonian. "Everyone has a comment when they are finally finished, especially when there are mistakes, but what I really need is for some of those students to step forward and help us when we're actually doing the yearbook. Right now we really need spring sports pictures, and we can always use good photos for all aspects of the Fultonian." To upload pictures, go to www.hjeshare.com and use the code: fultonian. Other details will be forthcoming in the back to school letter that will be sent out in August.
