

GRB welcomes new assistant principal

There is a new face around the halls and in the office at G. Ray Bodley High School as Assistant Principal Mrs. Stephenson arrived earlier this week. She is currently being shown the ropes via assistant principal fill-in/gym teacher Mr. Halliday for the remainder of the week.

Before coming to GRB, she was previously a math teacher at Cicero-North Syracuse High School and received her teaching master's degree at Lemoyne College and also spent two years at Oswego State.

Mrs. Stephenson said that her first day at GRB had gone well, and that she liked the staff and students. "Wonderful, there are a lot of friendly, welcoming and respectful students here at GRB," she commented. "And I cannot wait to work with everyone here in the office!"

As for her more personal interests she almost instantly replied "country music!" And her favorite country artist is Jennifer Nettles. She also enjoys international travel and going to concerts.

name and GSH of the person submitting them as well as the names of the people in any group shots. Pictures may be submitted online at www.hjeshare.com with the code fultonian, or given to Mr. Senecal in room 118 during guided study hall.

College application process should be underway

By Breanna St. Onge

Attention seniors and ambitious juniors! The time for preparing college applications is now. Deadlines sneak up on us all and pass by all too quickly. It is time to take the bull by the horns, as they say, and get a jump on those college application essays and activity lists.

This time of year is the perfect opportunity to take a trip down to the guidance office and get the scoop on what needs to be done in order for you to increase your chances of getting into that dream college of yours, if that is the path you have chosen to take. All of the counselors are equipped with the information you need to succeed at accomplishing the tasks at hand.

The guidance office has many free applications to local community colleges for those of you who want to get a local education closer to home or for those of you who just want to get those boring

There are also options including the choice to go out of state, maybe even across the country! The possibilities are endless and continue to expand as time goes on. So be sure to stop down to either acquire help with where to start in the process of applying or just to ask for some insite.

For those who don't think that college is for them, there is also help in determining what the best option would be for you if you need a little push as to which direction to start looking.

Be sure to take advantage of these resources around us while you can, because before we know it we will be walking across that stage and out into the world that is full of chances and opportunities. The time to act for the future is now.

Meet the cast of The Pink Panther Strikes Again

Lexi Abelgore

Lexi started with Quirk's Players when she was asked to be in the ensemble of Fiddler on the Roof when she was in sixth grade. This is now her sixth show at GRB and she enjoys every minute of it. She recently starred as Bambi Bernet in Curtains, and now she plays Olga Berrosiva, who falls in love with someone whom she is meant to kill.

Lexi describes Quirk's Players as the best part of her high school career. "The people here are always encouraging and will never tear you down. You meet people and have amazing experiences that you will carry with you."

David Houck

This is David's sixth show out of the eleven that he hopes to do before he graduates.

He has previously starred as Babu the terrorist in What the Bellhop Saw and Bobby Pepper in Curtains.

This year, as a sophomore, David takes on the lead role of Chief Inspector Jacques Clouseau. David says, "It's a lot of fun to play Clouseau because it proposes a challenge. It's a lot of acting and I get to change my personality and be someone I normally wouldn't."

Four-way tie at the top of our NFL picks

Mitch Woodworth

Last week: 10-5

Kansas City
@ San Diego

This week we have an interesting game on are hands. The Chargers are off to a great 5-1 start and quarterback Phillip Rivers has been a standout with an overall mark of 15 touchdowns 1,756 passing yards and only two interceptions. Their defense has been very clutch for them including last game with a pic for six to beat the Raiders.

The Chiefs, on the other hand, have a rough start with two wins and three loses. They have a good passing game, they just have to put things together with some good running because without running game you don't really have a great chance of winning. The key for the Chiefs is to get the run game working because the Chargers defense is on fire so running game is key. I predict that San Diego wins 35-21.

NY Jets @ New England

As embattled coach Rex Ryan and the New York Jets try to end their longest losing streak in seven years, the New England Patriots must overcome injuries to two key players in order to continue their surge. The AFC East rivals meet tonight when the Patriots try for a sixth consecutive regular-season home victory over the Jets.

Tom Brady has won six straight regular-season home games versus New York, and thrown nine touchdowns, one interception and recorded a 101.3 rating in the last five. After posting a 59.1 completion percentage with four touchdowns and two interceptions in the first four games, Brady silenced his critics by going 50 of 72 for 653 yards with six touchdowns and no picks against the Bengals and Bills.

San Francisco

@ Denver

This is the Super Bowl that almost was last February, until the 49ers folded down the stretch and missed their chance for a second straight trip to the big game. Coming off a major rally at St. Louis on Monday night, the 49ers stand at 4-2 on the season and are winners of three straight.

Denver, at 4-1, has seemingly picked up where they left off during last season's march to the final with Peyton Manning already good for 15 touchdown passes as he closes in on the all-time mark of 508. The Thomas boys have been his favorite receivers with Julius counting nine touchdowns among 24 catches while Demaryius has four six-pointers and 31 catches overall.

San Fran will be hoping for a steady diet of Frank Gore, as they need to try and establish a ground game against a stingy Denver defense.

Penalties could play a major role in this one as the 49ers have shown a tendency to lose their cool at times, which has led to their ranking of 28th in the NFL as penalty beneficiaries. Denver meanwhile, has profited from the calls and are fourth in that obscure category. The weather should not be a factor and it looks like a great Sunday night match-up between two prolific offensive units. I give the nod to the Broncos with the home crowd and the altitude both playing to their strength.

Malachi Manford

NY Giants at Dallas

With Dallas coming off of a big win against one of their rival teams it gives them a big advantage over the Giants going into week 7. The Giants are coming off of a big loss to one of their rival teams, the Eagles, to the tune of 27-0. This is a big game for both teams.

If the Giants can recuperate and get their game together and Dallas keeps performing how they have been then this will easily be the game to watch this weekend, and more than likely will be the game of the week. Giants 7 Dallas 6
