

Wrestlers primed for Saturday's Class A final

Last year's performance left a hard act to follow, but that is exactly what the Raider wrestlers will be hoping to do on Saturday when they host the Section III, Class A Tournament. Last year the team made history by sending every single competitor to sectionals as they steamrolled to their 16th straight Class A crown by a 102.5 point margin. In all, 17 Red Raiders qualified for the big show at OCC, and this year they plan on doing the same thing in the nine team showdown and are very excited for Saturday's action to begin at 10 am.

All eyes will be on returning three-time Class A champion Mitchell Woodworth, still undefeated at 31-0, and returning champion Travis Race, who brings a 37-6 record into the 170 pound weight class. The team will also be led by returning finalist and top seed Joey Abalgore, 29-9 at 99 pounds, as well as Collin Flynn, 24-9, and seeded first at 145.

Woodworth has a chance to tie one school record with a fourth Class A title, and at 175 wins he is currently deadlocked for the all-time Fulton record with 2011 graduate David Hall. As a result, his first match of the day could be an emotional experience for the fifth year varsity performer.

"It means a lot to me and I have dreamed of going down in history for Fulton since I was in fifth grade," he said of the goal that has seen him put in countless hours working out and going to camps over the summer to improve his technique.

Woodworth noted that the one person who really drives him to be number one in the state is his father, Mark Woodworth, who took fourth back in 1987. Mitchell said that he, "wants to top that off by breaking records and winning a state title to go out as a senior with a bang." A big showing on Saturday would also put him within reach of another Fulton pinnacle as he looks to join Hall and 2014 graduate Thomas Hill as the school's only three-time Section III champions.

Joining Abalgore as a legitimate threat at 99 pounds is sophomore Wyatt Willis, as he brings a 30-8 record into the day as the fifth seeded wrestler. In other weight classes young Nick Noel, the fourth seed at 106, has a shot at making it to the finals as an eighth grader while Adam Demuaro is looking to do the same at 120 as the second seed.

His brother Dylan Demuaro also had huge impact on the team this year and is the fifth seed at 132. Junior Captain Tim Holden, 36-7 on the season, is seeded second at 138 while at 145 pounds Collin Flynn brings an impressive 24-9 record as the number one seed and eighth grader Joseph Coccozza is seeded sixth with a record 9-10.

At 152 Jacob Bailey is seeded fifth with an 18-17 record with junior captain Victor Runeare seeded sixth at 160 with a record of 25-14. Travis Race, the defending champion at 170, is really excited about this weekend and looks forward to winning another title, although he will face some stiff competition along the way. The 182 and 195 weight classes will have either Noah Gates or Dylan Gorman and both been battling this year and should have a big impact by the time all is said and done on Saturday.

The 220 weight class will have senior Matthew Marshall looking to rumble up the weight class with a record of 15-12. Sophomore Jared Crucitti has been a powerhouse at 285 all season and will be looking to improve on his 25-15 record with a shot at advancing to the overall Section III Championship Meet next Saturday at Onondaga Community College.

Reviving Ophelia to air at GRB Feb. 10-11

February is Teen Dating Violence Awareness month., and because of this the Oswego County Opportunities SAF Program would like to raise further awareness of the severity of dating violence by showing the Lifetime movie Reviving Ophelia.

The movie will be show on Tuesday, February 10 and Wednesday, February 11 from 2:30-4 in the G. Ray Bodley auditorium. The movie features a girl named Elizabeth who is in a relationship with a boy named Mark. Soon into the relationship, Mark texts and calls Elizabeth at an extremely frequent rate, tells her what to wear and even tells her she is not allowed to hang out with friends. The relationship grows more and more abusive throughout the movie, leading to hitting and verbal abuse.

The movie highlights the importance of how essential it is to tell someone if your partner is showing any signs of abusive behavior. This activity can be more than just physical abuse. It can include constant insults, controlling what you do or wear or threats of violence, even if they seem like jokes.

Come watch this intense movie and pay attention to the signs of abusive behavior that are mentioned in the film. If you or someone you know are experiencing dating violence or have questions about a relationship, contact the STEP advocate at GRB, Ms. Reagan.

Opinion

Consider the consequences of teenage drinking

By Chelsea Knopp

This topic cannot be emphasized enough in the environment that we, as high school students, are surrounded by daily. Drinking is a serious responsibility and comes with an endless list of consequences that the teenage mind has yet to wrap itself around. As a result, this action should be taken very seriously.

High school students are young, curious and easily influenced and pressured by peers into doing things they may know are wrong, potentially putting themselves and others at risk, such as drinking. For starters, drinking not only affects decision making on a short term basis, but it may cause serious long term neurological damage such as Wernicke-Korsakoff syndrome. Korsakoff syndrome is a chronic memory disorder caused by severe deficiency of thiamine (vitamin B-1) most commonly caused by alcohol misuse.

Secondly the matter of drinking and driving has to be considered in a big way. Many of us currently have our permits or licenses, and do not realize that just one drink and getting behind the wheel could potentially end your life or others who are also traveling. An estimated thirty two percent of all fatal car accidents were influenced and a product of an intoxicated driver.

With a blood alcohol content level of just 0.02 a driver begins to lose their sense of judgment. Relaxation and altered moods occur, which result in a decrease in visual functions and ability to perform multiple tasks simultaneously. At 0.05 one will experience slower muscle movements and reaction times are noticeably impaired. At 0.08 it is much harder to sense dangerous situations and sensible judgment making is almost non-existent, while self-control, reasoning, and memory are all impaired, resulting in reduced concentration, memory loss, lack of balance, mood swings.

Luckily due to an increase in public awareness and education on the topic, alcohol related vehicle accidents have decreased forty eight percent since 1982. Let us as a whole generation keep this number spiraling down. These types of accidents are one hundred percent preventable. If worse comes to worse and you find yourself in a situation where you are unable to drive or are not comfortable with a friend driving, call a parent, family member, or trusted family friend because they would rather pick you up knowing that you are safe than have you behind the wheel intoxicated or a passenger to someone under the influence, let alone a body in the morgue due to drinking and driving.

Check out these movies with feelings

Valentine's Day is just around the corner and what better way to spend it than going to the movies to see something that will spark up a few feelings?

The animated film Strange Magic, released on January 23rd, revolves around a forest Bog King who has ordered that all Primroses be destroyed as a result of his own hatred for love and the flower being the main ingredient to the love potions. He soon finds, however, that his feelings changing when a strong minded fairy named Marianne begins to add in her opinions and the matter and medal with the king's plans. This film is friendly for all ages and appeals to several different viewers.

Perhaps the love/ mystical fantasy is not what you are interested in and would prefer to see something to take your mind off of the "dreaded" Valentine's Day try seeing The Boy Next Door. This film is most definitely aimed to entertain an older group of viewers. Jennifer Lopez plays newly divorced high school teacher and mother Claire Peterson. She finds herself in a sticky dangerous situation when a new neighbor Noah takes an interest in her, putting her job, her son's life and her life at risk. This is a rated R film so I do not recommend allowing younger sibling to attend seeing it with you.

Now something that aims more toward high school students is Project Almanac, which was released January 30th and is rated PG-13. A group of teenagers build a time machine in hopes that it would benefit past and future actions that they have taken or will take.

What they did not realize upon building the new machine is the cost of changing time. They then struggle to go back and reverse all of the actions that they have changed in hopes of restoring their worlds back to what they were before.

What do you think about SU's self-imposed ban on post-season tournaments?

"If you break the rules you should be punished."

Mrs. Kent

"I'm not happy about missing the playoffs but in the long run they most likely would not have made it anyway."

Mr. Burdick

"I'm very sad about it"

Mrs. Edele

"Imagine something in your life that you look very forward to and someone taking it away...I am very upset. Also there is now mild bullying taking action with signs being posted to my door. Bottom line follow the rules. I am still an SU fan and always will be."
