

STOP DWI exhibit coming to GRB April 27-30

By Lexi Abelgore

“One second, everything changes.”

This is the message used by The New York State STOP-DWI Foundation. G. Ray Bodley High School will be hosting a display sponsored by Wayne County STOP-DWI on April 27th-30th in the main lobby. It is being shown during the four days leading up to this year’s prom.

The exhibit focuses on three teens and one recent graduate from the town of Jasper in Steuben County who were all killed in a car accident caused by drunk driving in 2007. The exhibit tells the story of each young person and displays a few of their personal possessions as well. Words on the display read, “They were brothers, sisters, sons, daughters, and above all, friends. They had prevent this kind of tragedy with our STOP-DWI prevention, education and enforcement efforts.”

All G. Ray Bodley students are encour-

“They had everything to live for: and in an instant, everything changed.”

everything to live for: and in an instant, everything changed.”

The point of the exhibit is to send a strong message to teens, showing them that their actions can have devastating consequences. Wayne County Sherriff and STOP-DWI coordinator Barry Virts says, “It is my hope to aged to stop and take a look at this display while it is being shown. It is a powerful reminder of the consequences of driving while intoxicated. The intent of the display is to illustrate that these kinds of tragedies can happen, to all kinds of people. Athletes, musicians, advanced students, artists- everyone can be affected by DWI accidents.

The hope is that all GRB students will remember this display and think before they drink and drive or get in a car with someone who is intoxicated. With prom being just days after the display is shown, the hope is that the students will take it seriously and consider the consequences when they make choices during and after prom.

Tournament of Historical Champions ends

The annual Tournament of Historical Champions came to an exciting conclusion last Thursday as sophomore David Houck, left, and freshman Jake Geitner battled it out in the auditorium. Houck represented Cyrus the Great, the king and founder of Persia from 500 BC while Geitner took on the role of Eleanor of Aquitaine, ruler of both the French and British during the Middle Ages. The tournament, which began in March with 80 students, featured questions from a panel of student and faculty judges including a question that asked for their final “tweets.” “Just conquered the world but I don’t need slaves,” was Cyrus’ reply while Eleanor countered with “Women deserve to be on the throne.” And when the votes were tabulated, David Houck emerged as the 2015 winner of the Historical Tournament of Champions. Shown with the competitors is GRB Social Studies teacher and tournament organizer Ms. Dauphin. (Senecal photo)

Prom dress sale concludes today

Today is the final chance to grab a great deal on a prom dress during the annual sale, which will benefit a local charity. The dresses will be on sale during all lunch bells in the main commons area near the auditorium.

Bullying: it just keeps on getting worse

By Breanna St.Onge

For the third time this year I, your fellow student at G. Ray Bodley High School, am writing yet another article on bullying and how the only change that is being made is that is getting worse.

I have witnessed it all over the building and online along with personally experiencing it myself and I must say that I am truly baffled as to why people choose to do the things they do.

I have been in school almost my entire life and understand the purpose of bullying just about as much as I understand how the space shuttle is put together.

Whether it be bullying to someone's face or doing it while hiding behind a computer or phone, it is unreasonable and uncalled for. It is disrespectful and just plain immature.

Bullying does not always mean two people getting into a physical dispute, it can range from something as "simple," as harassing someone over Facebook, text messages or phone calls, up to the loss of a temper and ending up in a physical fight.

Whenever I do witness any type of bullying, I begin to lose hope and faith that things or the people who are bullies will ever change. Why must others belittle their fellow students, or anyone around them for that matter? Is it to make themselves feel better about who they are or their insecurities, or to experience some kind of feeling of pride or accomplishment? The act of bullying one another should not bring about any type of these feelings, in my opinion it should only bring about feelings of guilt and disappointment in oneself for committing such an immature action.

As a senior my days at G. Ray Bodley High School are numbered. I may not get another chance to write about this so I'll make one more try: think before acting, because it only takes one person to start a change.

Spring brings flowers, but it also brings bugs

By Chelsie Knopp

Spring weather is here and many are out enjoying it, even the buds on the trees are beginning to appear ready to soon blossom. But sadly with the coming of spring comes the reappearance of those pesky insects who manage to conveniently find their way into homes. Luckily for everyone there are several ways to counteract their clever ways of sneaking through cracks and crannies and into our homes.

Insects are without a doubt dirty and can carry several diseases into any home, so it is important to take necessary measures to be certain that they are not also living with you. Exterminators are a pricey route to take with just one home visit costing on average two hundred dollars, not to mention that the chemicals they use are not always of the safest types and can be harmful if inhaled. So here are some ways that you alone can inexpensively bug proof your home.

Just like any other living organism in the world these critters needs food as well, so a way to avoid attracting them is to be certain that all food products are kept in containers or bags that are not accessible to any insect in search of a snack. Another great way to try to prevent intruders is to think about their size, they certainly are not opening up your front door by themselves and coming in that way. They find small cracks and crevices to enter and sealing these gaps in your homes' exterior can help immensely. Fragrances such as eucalyptus and spearmint tend to send insects in the other direction as well, so if you enjoy the smell, spray it around the cracks in your home, it will keep unwanted pests away and leave everything else smelling wonderful.

These are just a few ideas to those who may be trying to handle or avoid any unwanted encounters with insects in their homes in the future. No one likes to be stung by bees or bitten by spiders in the middle of the night, so prevent the problem before it happens!

Mustangs score late to top Raider rally

Marcellus pushed two runs across in the bottom of the seventh inning to foil the day for a comeback minded Fulton side on Monday as the Mustangs outslugged the Raiders 9-7 in varsity softball. Sydney Lewis third hit of the game proved to be the decisive blow as she capped a four RBI outing with a two run single.

The hit spoiled a Raider comeback that had seen them battle back from deficits of 4-3 and 7-5 as Fulton dropped to 1-3 with their third straight loss. Cheyenne Laun paced the Raider cause with a home run and two singles to drive in a pair of runs while Courtney Parker and Brynn Waloven added two hit, two RBI performances as part of an 11 hit attack.

In other Monday action it was all Liverpool on the tennis court as the Warriors overwhelmed Fulton 7-0.

What's happening at G. Ray Bodley High School?
