

Quirk's Players to hold auditions for fall play

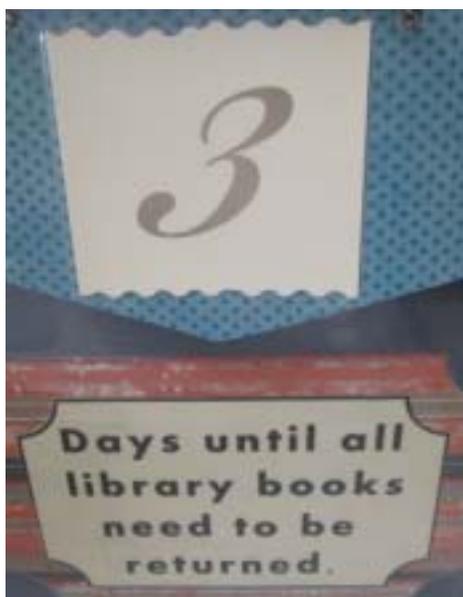

A few weeks ago the Quirk's Players Drama Club announced that they will be performing the farce comedy What the Rabbi Saw for next school-year's fall production. The play takes place in New York City where Walter and Wendy are soon to be wed. All the while, Walter is having an affair with the maid of honor and Wendy is having a fling with the best man! This over-the-top comedy will keep the audience on their toes.

This week, the directors announced the date of the auditions which will be held on Thursday, June 4 from 6-8:30 pm in the GRB chorus room. If you wish to audition for the show, see Mr. Nami for sign ups and more information.

Prospective actors do not need to bring any material to the audition, as it will consist of only cold readings. Keep in mind that this show has only 11 cast members with seven boys and four girls. The cast list will be posted shortly after the auditions. Come put on your best act and try out for What the Rabbi Saw.

The yearbooks have landed, and the first inspection went to layout editor Lexi Abalgore, left, and Fultonian Editor Cayla Weaver, right. This year's theme is "Paint the Town Red" with an original cover designed by sophomore Andrew Yankowsky. Yearbook distribution is set for Friday, June 5 outside the auditorium and there are still books for sale. The cost to purchase a yearbook is $60, and checks should be made out to Fultonian Yearbook. Students who have preordered a yearbook are urged to check their order status on the list outside the GRB cafeteria. (Senecal photo)

Exercise caution during these warmer days

By Maggie Williams

With the hot weather arriving, it is understandable that people are going to be spending as much time outside as they can. And although most people love the nice weather, it is important to remember that summer weather can be dangerous and we need to be cautious of that.

Due to the warm weather, you are at a major risk of overheating. Heat cramps, heat stroke and heat exhaustion can all occur when it is hot outside. Drinking water and staying hydrated are the keys to avoiding these situations.

Swimming is an easy solution to cooling off on hot summer days, but sometimes we are so caught up in having fun that we forget how dangerous swimming can actually be if we are not careful. Drownings happen all the time, and it doesn't just happen when people swim alone. It can happen at any time, with any number of people in the pool. Not only is drowning an issue, but pools can be dangerous due to the amount of bacteria in them. Chlorine kills most germs, but it is still possible to catch illnesses in pools.

The weather in summer can be threatening as well. Thunder and lightning storms are nothing to mess around with. Make sure to stay inside during a storm and definitely stay away from tall or metal structures. Floods, tornadoes and hurricanes can also occur during the summer. Weather like this can be very dangerous very quickly.

Nothing says summer like having a campfire with your friends or family, but don't forget to put out the fire when all the fun is over. Fires can happen many different ways such as grills, cigarettes, and even fireworks. Wildfires can often happen in dry areas that experience little rain in a certain amount of time. These fires can spread quickly, therefore caution must be taken immediately.

Throughout the summer months, there are several dangers that people often overlook. Make sure to be safe with anything and everything that you do.

Plenty of great movies are playing this weekend

It's that time again already, Friday! And with Senior Dinner Dance coming up next weekend I suggest that you get out with some friends and see a movie while you are free.

Released May 15th was Pitch Perfect 2, a sequel to the well-known movie Pitch Perfect. Since then it has raked in a profit of 70.3 million dollars. Even with the release being just about a week and a half ago it has almost passed its prequels total profit of 115 million dollars, which is outstanding news for the cast and crew.

In the new film three years have passed since the Barden Bellas became the first all-female group to win a national title and everything seemed to be going well for the young group of vocalists until a scandal at one of their performances leads their becoming one of the least favorite singing groups in the nation. The Bellas must now pull their act together in order to prepare for the world championships in Copenhagen, Denmark to redeem their title.

Perhaps singing is not something you personally take interest in and you favor more of a thriller type film. If that's the case then I suggest you see a movie such as The Poltergeist, which was released on May 22. In this particular movie a young family moves to the suburbs in hopes of starting their life on a good note and to give their children a bright future. Little do they know that this will not be the case.

They soon come to the realization that something is very wrong when their youngest daughter Maddy's "imaginary friend" begins to wreak havoc on the new family. Horrified and looking for answers the family turns to a specialist who hopes he can help to solve the problem at hand. Remember that this is a horror film and younger viewers should take caution before choosing to see this.

Tonight marks the long-awaited release of San Andreas which stars well known actor Dwayne "The Rock" Johnson as a search and rescue pilot who makes the decision to travel from Los Angeles to San Francisco through the destruction caused by a magnitude 9 earthquake in attempts to save his daughter before it is too late. This, without a doubt, is an action-packed must-see film.

All of these films are PG-13, so parents should still be careful while allowing younger individuals to see them. Another great thing about going to see a movie in this weather is that the movie theaters are air conditioned to a comfortable temperature and it will allow you to escape the heat and humidity that is awaiting in the great outdoors. Unless, of course, you are headed to the drive-in for a big night of movies with your friends or family.

BLAST from the PAST!

Leaders earned their accolades

Taken from The Raider newspaper, May 2007:

Many students become stressed with all of the drama, stress, and loads of work throughout their four years of their high school career. And many become lazy and develop the common disease of high-schoolers, especially seniors, called "senioritis."

However the class of 2007's valedictorian and salutatorian proved that hard work really does pay off. Maggie Abbate, ranked first in the class of 2007, was followed closely by Sara Manno. These two both made it all look easy, but they would both admit that it wasn't an easy process. To achieve this it takes a lot of time and a significant amount of effort, and sometimes this involves setting aside the things you love for your academics.

All the hard work that is put into achieving this pays off, mainly because the valedictorian and salutatorian receive amazing benefits and should be extremely proud of their achievements.

At a Board of Directors meeting on May 5, 2007 C.A.E.S. announced that it had awarded the 2007 John Rexine Scholarship to Fulton's Latin teacher, Mr. Crisafulli. This award is unique because it is not given every year, it is only given when appropriate applications are made.

For Mr. Crisafulli it was his first time applying as he commented "I was very pleased to have received it." The scholarship will help to fund his research as the John Rexine Visiting Scholar at the Capitoline Museums in Rome, Italy July of 2007.

Editor's note: Raider Net Daily wishes to extend its deepest condolences to the family of Mr. Crisafulli, a long-time Latin teacher at G. Ray Bodley High School, who passed away unexpectedly on Tuesday. Mr. Crisafulli was always a great supporter of GRB Journalism and will be greatly missed.
