Online tool simplifies application process

By Caleb Almeter

College application season is fast approaching, and for some applications it is already here.

By this time next year, many of G. Ray Bodley High School's current seniors will be settled into college, continuing their education. Now is the time to prepare and work for that, with the help of something new.

For the first time this year, the school is working with the Naviance online program. Every student and teacher has an account for ease of access to everything having to do with students' college applications.

Once students sign into their account and create a Common App. account, they can link the two together. All students now need to do this because all teacher recommendations must go through Naviance.

Last week, seniors could go down to the guidance office during lunch bells to become acquainted with the Naviance program. It is fairly simple, and provides an alternate way of organizing college applications. For students who missed it, the procedure is easy as they just log on using their school username and the password redraider123. The website can be found on the school website under Student Resources.

To get started students are encouraged to change their password, then look around a bit. There is an option to add colleges to the list of applications, or to a "colleges I'm thinking about list."

The website also has some career information, which is always helpful, and a variety of different options for planning out applications. It also allows communication with teachers, although it is best to begin a discussion about recommendations in person.

Linking the Naviance account with the Common Application is pretty easy. First, one needs a Common App. account (using the same email as the Naviance account!) and to have signed the FERPA waiver on it. Students may also need to have filled in what high school they attend on the Common Application.

The next step is to go to the "Colleges I'm Applying To" page on Naviance to link the accounts. This is also the page where a student can contact teachers. For this reporter finding that this was the page I needed was

Meet the Cast of Quirk's Players Bayley Raponi

Bayley Raponi has been in ten shows so far and this will be his eleventh. He has previously portrayed Governor Jim Geringer in

The Laramie Project, FBI Agent No. 5 in What the Bellhop Saw, and George Gershwin in Thoroughly Modern Millie.

He has also had some memorable ensemble roles in Damn Yankees and Hello Dolly! This time, he plays Eddie, the wedding photographer. Bayley describes him as "very serious about his job."

He says about playing the role, "I think it will be easy because I don't have a lot of lines and to play someone who is serious is the hardest part of setting up the account, so it's pretty straightforward.

With college application deadlines drawing nearer, time is becoming increasingly pressing. Fortunately, using the new Naviance tool is one more good step along the path to college.

Runners fall at ES-M

A one, two, three finish for East Syracuse-Minoa proved too much for the Fulton boys cross country team on Wednesday in a 25-30 loss to the Spartans. The Raiders claimed the fourth through eighth positions, paced by Ken Deloff's 17:38 and an 18:01 from Dan Phillips.

Isaac Crandall (18:11), Jossmar Vasques-Heaney (19:31) and Tyler Ruttan (19:35) also placed for Fulton.

For the girls Marissa Livoti was the only Raider to crack the top ten with a sixth place finish of 23:15.

It's time to bring attention to a real issue

By Cassidy Bowering

Did you know that globally, one in five children will deal with physical and/or sexual abuse by the time they turn 18?

Look around, there are lots of children in this world, and the abuse needs to stop. It can't be stopped without the people being aware. So in hopes of bringing awareness, Elliot Costello started a campaign called the Polished Man by YGAP.

"Men all around the world are painting one of their fingernails and posting the picture online with the hashtag #PolishedMan.

This is drastic enough to call attention to the issue by bringing in interest, and it's so easy to do that there is really no excuse not to."

Seniors take note!

Welcome aboard to the Class of 2019

Men all around the world are painting one of their fingernails and posting the picture online with the hashtag #PolishedMan. This is drastic enough to call attention to the issue by bringing in interest, and it's so easy to do that there is really no excuse not to.

Something so easy should be done by every man out there. Stand up for a just cause. Since 90% of these crimes are committed by men, it's time the real men pledge to protect the children.

Money can be donated to this project through their webpage and the money raised goes to Spark, Hagar, Child Wise, and New York Center for Children. Currently over 2,000 men have pledged online, with over $200,000 raised. If you're not able to donate, you can still pledge and raise awareness.
