

Looking for adventure? Check out the OAC

In this day and age, not everyone appreciates the beauty of nature. But if you are someone who loves the outdoors and is interested in sharing a good time with some fellow students, then stop by room 216 on any Tuesday to join the Outdoor Adventure Club.

Meetings are held most Tuesdays after school, but if there isn't one, it's okay! Stop by anyway and share your ideas or check up on what is coming soon. Mr. Pasho, the club adviser, is always looking for new ideas..

The club is considering going on a fishing trip this month, and a trip to the fish hatchery this fall. Some other ideas are snowshoeing at Beaver Lake, and in the spring perhaps some outdoor laser tag.

If one or more of these events sounds fun, stop by room 216. A student does not need to commit to every event to join in on the fun.

Going out in the great outdoors with some friends is a great way to bond or meet new people. Bring some friends along. The more the merrier isn't just a saying when it comes to the Outdoor Adventure Club.

Raider girls claim opening round victory

Fulton girl's soccer Coach George Beckwith isn't one to look a gift horse in the mouth; especially one stacked 11 wins high. But after watching his team battle past Vernon-Verona-Sherrill 2-0 on Wednesday night the Raider boss saw plenty of room for improvement if his side are to advance any further in the Section III Tournament.

"Definitely not our finest effort. I think we took a step back today," the veteran coach said of his team's opening round playoff victory. "They came at us very hard, they're well coached, they come at you hard. They may not be as skilled as we are, but they play the game very hard and I think what it did was it kind of caught us by surprise. We weren't ready for that kind of pressure and unfortunately it showed and we didn't play our game today."

Scoring once in each half the Lady Raiders improved to 11-5-1 on the season to set up a Thursday afternoon trip to meet #2 seeded New Hartford, a 2-0 winner over Phoenix on Tuesday. Sydney Gilmore scored one goal and provided a slide rule pass to Hailey Carroll for the second Raider marker on a night when the Raiders held the ball on a string but struggled in the final third against the game but overmatched Red Devils.

"We dominated play, we controlled play," Beckwith said of a performance that kept the visitors hemmed into their own zone for most of the first half, "but if you don't do anything with the ball, if you don't do anything in your final third then you're gonna be in a lot of trouble."

V-V-S goaltender Samantha Bentley kept the score respectable with a collection of acrobatic saves, finishing the night with 10 stops including big efforts against McKenna Chesbro, Gilmore, and a drive by Carroll that fell to Gilmore in the opening stanza to pro-

It's official! Oklahoma! coming to GRB stage

After weeks of speculation, the directors of the G. Ray Bodley High School theatre troupe Quirk's Players have finally announced the title of the 2016 Spring musical.

Student predictions of what the musical may be ranged from realistic possibilities to the laughably absurd. Musicals anywhere from Annie to Titanic or Cats were among these predictions.

After a few failed attempts at trying to guess what the show may be, and after students nearly burst with excitement, Director Tom Briggs announced this year's musical will be the American classic, Oklahoma! This well-known production is sure to bring a large crowd as it did in 2003 when Quirk's Players first performed it.

Sign ups for auditions will be located in Mr. Nami's room shortly. In the meantime, be sure to watch Quirk's Players' current production What the Rabbi Saw this Thursday, Friday, and Saturday. By David Houck

Opinion

30 years later: Was Back to the Future II right?

By David Houck

“2015? You mean we’re in the future?”

“That’s right, folks.

We’re in the future.”

This line was delivered by Michael J. Fox’s character Marty McFly in the iconic 1980s film, Back To The Future II, directed by Robert Zemeckis.

In this hit sequel, Marty McFly and Doc Brown (Christopher Lloyd) travel to the year 2015, October 21st to be exact, in order to prevent McFly’s son from ruining his life. Zemeckis’ depiction of what he imagined 2015 to look like is entertaining to say the least. While the streets are not yet filled with flying cars and Jaws 19 has yet to hit the theaters, Robert Zemeckis may have gotten a few predictions right— or at least pretty darn close.

During the film, Fox is shown wearing computable glasses. Sound familiar? Today, Google Glass devices look pretty similar.

Zemeckis also predicts video calls. In fact, the film’s video chats are better quality compared to today’s frustrating Skype calls. In addition to talking to TV screens, computers in Back to the Future II take orders via voice commands. Early depiction of Siri?

Out of all the futuristic gadgets in the film, one has caught the attention of viewers more than any other: the sneakers. During the movie, Michael J. Fox’s character donned a pair of self-lacing Nike shoes. Early in January, Nike designer Tinker Hatfield announced that the Nike Air MAG will hit the stores sometime before the end of 2015, coinciding with the 30th anniversary of the first film. Hatfield adds that like the shoes from the film, the MAGs will light up and feature Power Laces.

Pepsi is also jumping on the collector’s item train, releasing Pepsi Perfect for a limited time.

While the Cubs have yet to win the World Series, they are currently playing in the National League championships with the winner advancing to the fall classic. Should they win, it would be the first time since 1908.

So who knows, perhaps the movie was right after all.

What’s happening at G. Ray Bodley High School?

The Fulton Family YMCA is looking for student representatives on their Board. Students would work collaboratively with the Board members to determine how to best serve the youth population in this community. Applications are available in the guidance office and completed forms need to be turned in to Ms. Weston.

The next meeting of the Fultonian Yearbook is Tuesday after school in room 102. New members welcome.

Physicals for sports and working papers will be available on October 27 by appointment only. Stop by the nurse’s office to make your appointment.

There will be a senior class officers meeting after school today in Mr. McCarten’s room.

French Club will meet today after school in room 121 to finish the movie and discuss upcoming fundraising and travel plans.

The Class of 2019 is selling pizza slices and bottled water after school on Tuesdays and Thursdays for $1.50.

Mentor volunteers: training will take place today, Oct. 21 after school in room 119. See Mrs. Cronk for more details. Anyone who did not attend on Wednesday needs to come to the next session as you must have training before you can begin mentoring. See Mrs. Cronk if you mentored last year.

Math Club will meet after school on Tuesday, Oct. 27 in room 111. Bring your team name and a logo, as well as t-shirt ideas for this year’s shirt.

Attention Ski & Snowboard Club members: paperwork and first payment are due to Mrs. Ryan in room 111 by this Friday.

All OCAY members need to see Mrs. Ruzekowicz today during guided study hall in room 227.

What’s for lunch?

Today: Cheese pizza with salad, baby carrots and peaches
Thursday: Edibowl taco salad with cheese and salsa, steamed rice, corn and oranges/miles

Meet the Cast of What the Rabbi Saw Victoria Eckhard

Victoria, a G. Ray Bodley High School senior, is proud to take up the role of Claudia in this year’s fall production What the Rabbi Saw. Claudia plays the Maid of Honor who finds herself caught in the middle of an affair.

Victoria describes the role as, “a challenge to play,” but one that she is enjoying. “Everynight I...get to be someone else for a while,” Victoria states; “That’s one of the best things about Quirk’s Players.”

Victoria made her first appearance on stage as Brigitta von Trapp in Quirk’s Players’ production of The Sound of Music in 2010.

Zachary Almeter

G. Ray Bodley senior Zachary Almeter appears on stage for the first time in Quirk’s Players’ wedding farce What the Rabbi Saw. Playing the “...well-meaning, yet...highly gullible” Rabbi, Zachary is sure to steal the hearts — and laughs — of the audience.

Zachary states that he believes this “...role is perfect,” for him, and fellow cast members would have to agree.

Come watch Zachary Almeter take on this zany role in this hilarious, laugh-out-loud production. (compiled by David Houck)

Join Quirk’s Players for What the Rabbi Saw, Thursday through Saturday October 22-24 at 7:30 pm in the GRB auditorium. Look for our final two cast previews tomorrow in RaiderNet Daily.

Girls advance, face New Hartford on Thursday

duce the game's first goal. "She played very well, she made some great saves," Beckwith said in praise of the Red Devil sophomore. "She definitely thwarted some chances...you've got to give them a lot of credit because they pressed us right to the very end."

Fulton roared out of the blocks to open the second half, just missing a second goal on several occasions before a long through ball from Callie Beckwith found Gilmore, who slotted it across to a streaking Carroll for a much needed insurance marker just seven minutes into the second half. But just when it seemed like the Raiders were about to pounce on their beleaguered guests, Fulton seemed to let its foot off the gas, much to the disappointment of their coach.

"Unfortunately we've had that a couple of times this year," Beckwith admitted. "What happens is that we get a little confident with our play and it's 'okay we've got this now' and in the end it's going to come back to bite us if we're not careful." And while he was impressed with his team's effort just after the intermission, he wanted to see a complete performance from his side. "That's how we've got to play soccer," he commented. "But the problem is it was only ten minutes of soccer out of an eighty minute game. First half we showed none of that and then we had ten minutes, and then we kind of let off after that."

In what he called a "flat effort all the way through," the coach then explained the logic behind his disappointment, despite the fact that the Raiders won the game while holding the 11-6 Red Devils off the scoreboard for the first time this season. "I think we're better than this," he noted. "And I tell the kids that I'm a very selfish person in the aspect that once they show me something, then I expect that all the time. We played an unbelievable game against Chittenango. I don't want that to be our best game of the year. I want our best game to be our next game, and then after that, we want to play a little bit better against whoever our opponent happens to be after that. We want to keep getting better."

The Raiders will get a chance to do just that on Thursday against a 14-1-1 New Hartford team that Beckwith noted as being "solid."

"They're actually bigger and more physical than these guys are," he stated. "They have a couple of kids up top very fast, score a lot of goals. If we're not doing a great job of marking we'll be in a lot of trouble."

In other opening round action the home sides ruled in Class A as top seeded Jamesville-Dewitt belted Carthage 6-0, #3 Central Valley Academy topped Camden 4-1, #4 Watertown bested ES-M 3-1, #5 Homer topped Oswego 6-0 and CBA eased past Whitesboro 1-0 in a match-up between the

#8 and #9 seeds.

The #3 seeded Red Raider boys will open sectional play this afternoon at 5:30 pm when they play host to Indian River, with the winner to advance against East Syracuse-Minoa, a 4-1 Tuesday night winner over Oswego. Vernon-Verona-Sherrill scored a 2-1 upset victory over Whitesboro while Phoenix shaded Central Valley Academy 2-1 and New Hartford topped Oneida 2-0 in other Class A boys playoff openers.

Spikers end long drought with big win

The girls volleyball team finally got their revenge on rivals Oswego on Thursday night, and it proved to be twice as nice for the RedRaider spikers.

The girls not only beat the Bucs for the first time since 2006 in a quick three game match, but it was also Oswego's senior night, snapping a string of five consecutive losses to the girls in blue and white.

In the first game the Raiders rallied from a 16-4 deficit to set the tone for the night with a 25-21 win. Game two fell the Raiders way 25-17 and they wrapped things up with a 25-21 third game victory to improve to 9-4 on the season. With the win Fulton moved into second in the league just behind Jamesville-Dewitt. Leaders of the Oswego game were both outside hitters Hailey Chesbro and Stacey Sereno along with Karly Kearns and Mallory Harter, whose passing was key in the game.

The girls still have three more regular season games before sectionals and they are hungry for a section title. The Raiders host Jordan-Elbridge on Thursday with JV action beginning at 5 pm..
